

POST TAKES OFF FROM NOVOSIBIRSK FOR IRKUTSK,
17 HOURS AHEAD OF PRESENT GLOBE-CIRCLING MARK;
HEADWINDS SLOWED AVIATOR IN FLIGHT FROM MOSCOW

Displays Almost Superhuman
Physical Stamina and Courage

CUTS HIS REST PERIOD

Thorough Inspection of Plane
Planned For at Next Stop

NOVOSIBIRSK, Siberia, July 18—(INS)—Winning his battle for a new world flight record by displaying almost super-human physical stamina and courage, Wiley Post took off in his blue and white monoplane for Irkutsk, Siberia, at 12:55 p. m. today (1:35 a. m., E. D. T.) 17 hours and 4 minutes ahead of the present globe-girdling mark.

Post landed here at 10:29 a. m. (11:29 p. m., Monday, E. D. T.) after a 13-hour flight from Moscow on which he was slowed down to a 138 m. p. h. rate by headwinds.

He gained six hours and 48 minutes here, however, by a quick refueling and cutting his rest period to one hour. He was on the ground only two hours and 26 minutes in all, as compared with 9 hours and 14 minutes he and Harold Gatty spent here on their record-making world hop over the same route in 1931.

On departing Post announced he intended landing at Irkutsk for another brief rest and a "thorough inspection" of his ship, the veteran "Winnie Mae." The flight to Irkutsk, 1,166 miles away, was expected to take about eight and one half hours, which would get the one-eyed American flyer there about 10:30 a. m., E. D. T., today.

Post spent much of his stop here in discussion with airport officials who gave him discouraging information regarding the weather along his route, forecasting "heavy rain and thick fog for about 120 miles of the first part of the hop." Clear weather prevailed about Irkutsk, however.

The American characteristically refused to be daunted and announced he would proceed anyway.

"It can't be any worse than I pulled through between Moscow and Novosibirsk," he said.

"Over half the distance it was so foggy I could hardly see my hand in front of my face."

"I'm not very tired," he replied to officials who wanted him to take a longer rest here. "I want to push on while the going is good."

Thus after having lost time due to bad weather, as he did between Berlin and Moscow, Post gained on the present globe-circling record by sheer courage and defiance of fatigue. Practically all of the lead he has had over the former trip has been gained by cutting down stopping times to an absolute minimum.

Post ate a very light meal while his plane was being refueled. He spoke briefly as he ate, praising the reception he was accorded here and in Moscow by willing and efficient airport officials and mechanics.

Someone in Moscow had written on the tail of the "Winnie Mae" the words: "Greetings from the workers of Moscow."

When this was called to Post's attention, he said:

"Nice gang. They did a good job in repairing my robot."

Post said his robot pilot worked well along the route from Moscow.

Plays Highly Commended;
Plays Written by D. E. Bell

The initial effort in the "Little Theatre" movement in this section of Bucks County, instituted by Dudley E. Bell, was most creditable last evening, when two one-act plays written and directed by Mr. Bell were staged in St. James's parish house.

The casts of both plays took their parts in a most commendable manner. The author of the plays participated in both numbers, being assisted in one by Miss Eleanor Keating, and in the second by Mrs. Theodore B. Megargee and Mrs. Parke M. Wetherill. Musical numbers were provided by Frank Della and Mr. Kanter.

The parish house was filled for the occasion, and those witnessing the program were high in their praises.

ENTHUSIASM FOR BARGE
PARTIES IS CONTINUING

Mules Might Be Seen Drawing
Canal Boats Nearly Any Night

MANY RESERVATIONS

NEW HOPE, July 17.—The barge party craze still continues in this section of Bucks County. On nearly any evening one can travel along the river road from this point, and see mules slowly drawing barges on the picturesque canal, which hugs the Delaware River.

This kind of "barging" is the evolution of the old-time freight barges that you'll see now. Barges loaded down with gay parties of picnickers or others just out to enjoy the marvelous scenery for which this section has no equal.

The barge party craze has hit this section with a bang. It's become so popular that now you have to make your reservations far in advance. Time was when you could hire a barge for a quiet little trip up the stream at almost a moment's notice. But those days are gone.

Grass used to grow along the mule paths where once trod the faithful animals of the golden freight barge days. The long-eared critters who knew every step along the lovely old stream were relegated to the plow and it was a far cry to the time when the bargeman's horn used to send its clear, if not melodious, notes hurtling around a bend of the stream to warn some sleepy lockkeeper of the approaching boat.

All that has changed. The mules have gladly left the plows to horses and modern machinery and the tow path once more bears the imprint of sharp hoofs and the bargeman's horn sounds out jubilantly.

Prosperity for the bargeman has returned. Maybe not in the plentiful way that it once hit this section but still enough to make life worth living.

In these river towns, anyway, a person doesn't want for much. Just a nice, comfortable roof over your head, a plentiful table and the chance to breathe in the marvelous air and see the gorgeous scenes which nature provides.

Or perhaps a flower peeking in the window of your vine-covered cottage, a few vegetables growing comfortably in the little spot you call a garden and the association of those homey folks you call your neighbors. What more could a man want?

Thus lives the bargeman. He knew prosperity, he knew adversity. Now he's on top of the world again. He's got his mules back again, painted up the old barge and come what may, he's happy.

WOMAN DOCTOR GETS
SUSPENDED JAIL TERM

Dr. Bertha Guild is Placed on Probation for Three Years

OTHER COURT CASES

DOYLESTOWN, July 18.—Dr. Bertha Guild, Haycock township physician, college graduate and former member of the staff of a Philadelphia children's hospital, who was convicted of manufacturing and possessing intoxicating liquor on her farm early this year, was yesterday given a suspended sentence by Judge Calvin S. Boyer and placed on probation for a period of three years on condition that she pay the costs of prosecution before January 1, 1934.

The jury that convicted Dr. Guild recommended that mercy be shown by the Court in pronouncing sentence. A new trial was applied for, but was refused by Judge Boyer, and Dr. Guild appeared for sentence.

Attorney Mark Thatcher, of Sellersville, and Attorney Webster Grim, of Doylestown, spoke in behalf of Dr. Guild before sentence was pronounced, calling attention to the fact that it was their contention that Dr. Guild in this case was the victim of circumstances.

On the doctor's farm when it was raided by State Police and County Detective Antonio Russo, the largest distillery in the history of Bucks County was seized. Several employees at the plant were placed under arrest but since have been fugitives from justice.

Dr. Guild testified that she rented the barn for a plumbing establishment after a real estate dealer in Chalfont had spoken to her about renting the place.

Dr. Guild informed the Court that for two weeks before the raid she was at home attending her daughter who was ill at the time, and that she had no time to think about any moonshine plant.

"It is inconceivable that Dr. Guild did not know that the distillery, the largest that has ever been found in Bucks county, was located just a short distance from her home," Judge Boyer remarked.

"You have made a terrible mistake, I'm not guilty," Dr. Guild said to the Court just before sentence was pronounced.

"I did not convict you, it was the jury," Judge Boyer explained, "but I cannot see how a jury could have done otherwise," he added. "I am willing to accept the recommendation of mercy made by the jury, but in a certain sense, a cultured person like you, is worthy of less consideration than an ignorant one when it comes to taking part in a crime. You probably were led into this in a way, not being accustomed to the life on a farm."

Dr. Guild's attorneys informed the Court that their client is now on relief and could not pay the costs in the case by September 1, this year, as first ruled by the Court.

Dr. Guild then asked the Court how long she would have to serve in prison to "pay off" the costs and she was informed that it would take thirty days. Judge Boyer then extended the time of payment of costs until January 1, 1934.

Opinions and decrees by Judge Boyer were handed down as follows:

VOTING ON REPEAL TODAY
Washington, D. C., July 18.—Some 400,000 voters trudging to the polls in Alabama and Arkansas today were expected to sound the death knell of national prohibition by launching the dry Democratic South to ratification of the repeal amendment.

Administration leaders in the Capitol and spokesmen for the repeal movement predicted both States would ratify the new 21st amendment striking prohibition from the Constitution. They forecast a two to one wet majority in Alabama and an equally effective, though slightly less majority in Arkansas. The outcome in both States was regarded as a test of the administration's influence. This issue was injected into the balloting when the President appealed to the Democratic South to ratify the repeal amendment and carry out the party's pledge for repeal.

In the last two weeks administration leaders waged a furious fight for ratification in both States. Postmaster General James A. Farley led the fight in person. He toured the South during the past week urging local Democratic leaders to stand by the President and the party platform. He declared the party's future was at stake since a repudiation of the repeal pledge by the solid Democratic South would injure the party's chance for success in the north and east in 1936.

Alabama appeared safe in the ratifying column. Both the State's Senators, Black and Bankhead, voted for the resolution submitting repeal to the people.

Arkansas Senators were divided on the question. Senator Robinson, Democratic leader in the Senate, voted for submission of the repeal resolution and privately predicted ratification by Arkansas. Mrs. M. R. S. Carroway, only woman Senator, voted against it.

SWITCH O'CONNELL SEARCH
New York City, July 18.—The search for John J. O'Connell, Jr., kidnapped son of Albany's political boss, again switched suddenly to New York today.

In rapid succession, squads of detectives searched five buildings here, two of them known to have been used by the Owney Madden gang to handle beer in the pre-legal days.

Police officials were convinced they had been on a "hot trail" even though the kidnapers had managed to elude them. The tip which started the feverish and secret police activity came to Manhattan headquarters from Albany yesterday afternoon, and stated O'Connell was being held in New York. Captain John J. Appel, in charge of the third inspection district, began his preparations when the first tip came in.

SETS ASIDE SALE
OF HANZEL FARM
HELD BY SHERIFF

Judge Keller's Opinion Holds
That the Sale Was Irregular

UNFAIR, FRAUDULENT

Court Asserts Right to Take
This Action in Controlling Own Writs

DOYLESTOWN, July 18.—Bucks County's widely-discussed Sheriff's sale of the personal property of John Hanzel, Bedminster township farmer, that has been hanging fire since last February, was disposed of in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday when the opinion of President Judge Hiram H. Keller was handed down by Judge Calvin S. Boyer in the absence of the former, who is on a trip through the West.

The opinion, awaited with much interest throughout the country, directs that the sale be set aside in the case of Jacob Laufensweiler against John Hanzel. Judge Keller ruled that the sale be set aside and directed the Sheriff to refund to the respondents the sums of money paid by them to the Sheriff for the articles struck off to them at the sale.

Newspaper and magazine comment throughout the nation followed the Hanzel sale when a large quantity of household goods was sold for a total of $1.18, although the goods were worth much more. Cows and horses sold for as little as five cents apiece when a group of farmers who claimed to be members of an organization known as the Bucks County Farmers' Protective Association, banded together and "bought in" the goods to save their fellow member Hanzel.

For reasons set forth in an eleven-page typewritten opinion, Judge Keller rules the sale was irregular, unfair and fraudulent and directs that Sheriff Horace E. Gwinner refund to Peter Kodas, Paul Gross and John Niezney, the respondents, the respective sums of money paid by them to the Sheriff.

Most of the decision is given over to the discussion of law on the subject.

The defendant Hanzel was indebted to Laufensweiler, the plaintiff, on a confessed judgment in the sum of $1800. On December 19, 1932, the plaintiff caused execution to be issued and a writ of fieri facias was delivered to Sheriff Gwinner, returnable January 9, 1933. The Sheriff levied on December 20, 1932, on all the personal property of the defendant.

On January 3, 1933, after due notice, the goods were sold at public sale by Sheriff Gwinner, under circumstances that the Sheriff described in his return as "irregular and at a great sacrifice," for $1.18.

On January 11, 1933, the plaintiff, by his attorney, filed a motion to set aside the sale. Instead of sustaining the motion and setting aside the sale forthwith, upon the contents of the return, as the Court could properly have done, in the exercise of its equitable powers, a rule was granted upon the defendant in the execution, and Peter Kodas, Paul Gross and John Niezney, the three purchasers of all the defendant's goods at the sale, to show cause why the sale should not be set aside.

ST. ANN'S EASES UP

Damp Wash Comes From

A. O. H. at ST. ANN'S

St. Ann's A. A. took matters too easy last night as the Damp Wash A. A. came from behind to tie the Purple and Gold at a 6-6 score. The tilt was played on St. Ann's field.

The St. Ann's nine amassed a five to two lead in the first inning and then loafed enough to allow the Damp Washers to deadlock the count with 3 runs in the second. Harvey Cochrane counted the tying run with a clean steal of home while Whyno was holding the ball. St. Ann's went ahead in the third only to have Pucco score from first on a short hit to right in the sixth. This tally deadlocked the totals again as the nine went scoreless in the last inning.

St. Ann's' outthit the laundrymen, eight to six. The Saints had four runners left on the sacks while the Damp Wash team stranded two.

"Hokey" Leighton and "Charlie" Whyno were the opposing moundsmen. Whyno was steady throughout the game and failed to issue a pass and fanned five hitters. Leighton allowed three bases on balls and struck out seven. Two of his passes came in the first inning and this with a hit batsman and two passed ball which sailed through the wiring behind the catcher

MORRISVILLE "BATTLE"
MAY BE ENDED TONIGHT

Taxpayers Urge Councilmen
To Compromise Over The Tax Rate

HOPE FOR AGREEMENT

MORRISVILLE, July 18.—An endeavor is to be made tonight to settle the controversy over the tax rate of Morrisville borough, when a meeting of borough council will take place.

A large number of taxpayers are urging the councilmen to compromise, although at present there are no signs of either side giving in. Residents realize as well as the councilmen that it is necessary to levy some kind of a tax so the borough can operate and friends of both factions have expressed the opinion very pointedly that the squabble has gone far enough. The best thing for the municipality is for the warring factions to get together and compromise on some kind of a tax rate, they say.

Those who have been fighting for a four mill reduction will compromise on three mills. Residents argue that councilmen who have been holding out for two mills should meet their opponents half way and accept the three mill slash.

An effort was made to get members of the finance committee together with the hope of reaching an agreement but only two members of the committee reported at the council chamber. It was also expected to have a special meeting of council had the committee reached an agreement but the entire matter rested until tonight.

Should the deadlock continue after this meeting, there are some citizens who will go into court with a petition to oust the entire council and ask the court to appoint a new body in order that a tax rate may be set. Members of the legal profession state that such proceedings have taken place in Pennsylvania and they also assert that this is the only proper procedure to take as the councilmen are neglecting their duty when they fail to provide a tax rate.

During the deadlock, many personalities have been engaged in and friendships of long standing broken. There have been charges made and denied and those in the know say the whole controversy is the outgrowth of personal jealousy and nothing more.

Friends of the councilmen on both sides say that it is the general opinion throughout the town and the wish of the majority of taxpayers that the dispute be settled.

An alleged drunken driver last night drove his car into a machine ahead of him, crashed into another machine and then struck the third car traveling in the opposite direction. The accident occurred on the Bristol Pike at a point where an elevated foot bridge crosses the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad, between Bristol and Croydon.

Mrs. Wilkie is receiving treatment at the private hospital of Dr. J. Fred Wagner. The others are now at their homes.

The alleged driver of the car, Clayton J. Smyan, 32, or 1915 East Somerset street, Philadelphia, was brought to the municipal building here by Chief of Police Linford J. Jones, and Chief James L. McGee, until the arrival of the state highway patrol. Patrolman Diem placed Smyan under arrest, charging him with drunken driving, and being drunk and disorderly. A hearing will be held before justice of the peace James Guy this evening.

Two of Smyan's companions, who live at the same address, are also being detained. They are: William K. J. Keller, 30; and Edward Lyons, 31.

According to those near the scene at the time of the accident, two other men, who were riding with Smyan made their get-away before the arrival of the police. Several bottles of liquor were found in the car, and all three machines were considerably damaged.

This morning Smyan denied that he was the driver of the car, stating that he did not know who was the operator at the time of the accident.

I learned about "Toasting"
from my husband

I used to think that "Toasting" was just an advertising phrase. But one day my husband explained to me what "Toasting" is—and what it does. Where he learned it all, I don't know, but I began to understand the difference in cigarettes. Now I find myself enjoying Luckies' mildness and fine taste with a new respect. But even more—since I am a woman quite sensitive to personal daintiness—and since my cigarette and my lips are so intimately related, I especially appreciate the comforting purity of "Toasting". Naturally, with me it's always "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

HINES WINS DUEL; "HIBS" ARE WINNERS

LOWER BUCKS COUNTY LEAGUE

Schedule for Tonight
PARKLAND at LANGHORNE
HULMEVILLE at ODD FELLOWS
(At Emilie)

A pitching duel between "Danny" Hines, of the Hibernians, and "Milt" Jones, of the Bristol A. A., ended in a victory for the former, last night, on Sullivan's field, as the Hibs nosed out Mulholland's team, 4-3.

Both Hines and Jones hurled good ball, Hines allowing seven safe hits while Jones was found for five. The only inning in which Bristol bunched its hits was in the fifth when all their tallies were made.

In this frame, Jones, Stomp, and Barrett were credited with singles and two errors were charged to Thompson. Cooper was credited with a fielder's choice.

Dugan's triple and McGinley's hit scored the first Hibs' run in the second while three more went to their total in the next inning when Foster singled, Hines fanned, Dougherty and Dugan hit safely and two errors by Werham and Stomp on rollers from Gleason and Thompson.

In the last four innings only twelve Hibernian hitters stepped to the plate.

EMILIE NOSES OUT THE WHITE ELEPHANTS NINE

Emilie A. A. nosed out the White Elephants on the Emilie field last night in a hurling match between "Reds" Devine and "Bill" Dietrich. Dietrich was replaced by Lewis Prall late in the match. Final score was 5-4.

A rally in the last inning scored two runs for the Elephants but fell one short of the necessary total to deadlock the Emilieites.

WALTER FOERST IS NOW MANAGING CROYDON NINE

Walter Foerst is now managing the Croydon Y. M. A. ball team, which won their game from the Bordentown team by the score of 10-0, Sunday afternoon on their own ground.

The features of the game were the batting of Joe Heftman and the pitching of Stomp, who allowed only four hits. Curry, a new catcher, is a very promising youngster who helped to shut out the opposing team.

WINDSOR, Conn.—(INS)—The old adage that "lightning never strikes twice in the same place" was definitely contradicted here a short time ago. During one storm the home of A. C. Johnson at East Windsor Hill and that of J. H. Gauthier in East Windsor were struck by bolts and before the storm was over both were struck again.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By JUDGE GORDON

PEANUT BUTTER

"THE proof of the pudding is in the eating." This may be applied especially to Peanut Butter, for not only is it wholesome, nutritious and appetizing, but is delicious when combined with other foods.

According to tradition peanuts were introduced into Virginia during the early days of colonization, presumably by the slave traders. Jefferson spoke of its culture in Virginia in 1781. The crop was apparently first started in the region around Jamestown, where it thrived from the start because of what is now known to be almost ideal soil and climatic conditions. During the early days peanuts were grown largely in gardens and in small patches and a few were roasted and sold on their street in the town of Virginia and later in New York and other eastern cities; but it was not until the Civil War that peanuts became of any considerable importance as a commercial crop.

The trail of peanuts being manufactured into peanut butter is a long winding path: First the peanuts have to be roasted, then cooled, then blanched. Machinery does all

BALBO MAY TAKE NON-STOP FLIGHT

Chicago, Ill., July 18.—As though the 6100-mile flight from Orbetello, Italy, via Labrador, to the Century of Progress, were nothing more than a routine flight, General Italo Balbo looked around today for something to really try the mettle of his 96 "eagles." He believes he has found it in a non-stop hop from Newfoundland to Ireland. Unless a study of weather maps in New York convinces him that insurmountable hazards block the way, that is the route he and his 24 silver hydroplanes will take back to the Orbetello air base. This was learned from persons close to the air minister in the Mussolini cabinet who said he would take the safer but longer Azores route only if forced to do so by continued unfavorable weather.

ALEXANDER VAN RENSSLAER DIES

Philadelphia, July 18.—Alexander Van Rensselaer, 82, Phila. sportsman and art patron, died in the Chestnut Hill Hospital after a year's illness. Van Rensselaer, who had been in the hospital two months, spent the last 24 hours in a coma. Van Rensselaer had been a prominent figure in Philadelphia social life for the past 25 years. He resigned last May after serving for 32 years as leader of the Philadelphia Orchestra Association. In addition to taking an important part in the advancement of art and education he was a director of Drexel Institute since 1897 and a life trustee of Princeton University.

AIR MINDED DOG

HARTFORD, Conn.—Even dogs are becoming air-minded. Mrs. Mary Samson, local woman pilot, has a small black spaniel, Bomber, who snoozes indifferently in the hangar while dozens of planes soar overhead or land on the field. As soon as his mistress plane's motor can be heard, however, he awakens and dashes out on the field to welcome her.

Frederick I. Fellows, 36, married, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of fraudulent conversion of $1500 belonging to George Sommer, owner of the Sommer Creamery, Doylestown.

Fellows left Doylestown December 6, 1932, after working for Mr. Sommer as a salesman. He is accused of keeping money collected from his customers and not turning it over to Mr. Sommer.

The defendant has five children. "I used the money playing the horses," Fellows testified. "I would make false returns and pocket the rest of the money. The statement to Mr. Sommer that I used the money for a sick wife and to buy furniture was not true."

Mrs. Agnes Fellows, wife of the defendant, testified that her husband left her and the children and that he never sent her any money. She said her husband was never a drinking man.

There were approximately 70 different bills against Fellows. Judge Boyer called attention to the fact that he could be sentenced to 350 years in jail.

"I have nothing to say. I'm pleading guilty and am going to take my medicine like a man," Fellows said to Judge Boyer.

"Not much can be said for you," the Court answered.

Judge Boyer sentenced Fellows to serve a sentence of two to five years in the County Prison.

When Charles Rickert, twenty, pleaded guilty before Judge Boyer to a charge of stealing chickens on two different occasions in the Pipersville section, the Court informed him that he had "disgraced the flag of his country because he had committed the thefts while home on furlough from an enlistment in the United States Army."

Rickert was sentenced to serve a sentence of nine months to three years in the county prison and was fined $5 and costs.

The defendant admitted that he stole chickens from his aged grandfather, Daniel Rickert and from other people while in the company of his brother, Harry Rickert and Henry Smith who were sentenced last week by Judge Hiram H. Keller.

"What kind of a soldier are you that would rob your own grandfather?" Judge Boyer asked Rickert. "I have a good record in the Army and never did anything wrong there; I was honorably discharged last week," Rickert informed the Court.

"Your idea of a good soldier is one who does nothing wrong in the Army," the Court continued. "I wish you could have been here the other day and heard what Judge Keller said to your brother and the other boy. He told them the Court has been entirely too lenient with boy gangs in Bucks county whose purpose it is to steal chickens and other things. For that reason the policy of this court has been changed and sentences will be made more severe. In a certain sense you should get a longer sentence than any of the others. You were accepted by the United States government to protect the flag but to you the flag is nothing more than a rag. You have turned against your own flag in stealing while home on furloughs and while you were still a soldier."

MEANS that you can get the money you need with the same convenience that you charge merchandise at a store. Your own signatures are all we require (for amounts up to $100) and the cost is so reasonable that everyone can take advantage of this helpful service. For example, the average monthly cost when repaid in 10 monthly payments is as follows:

For 25 the cost is .48
For 50 the cost is .96
For 75 the cost is $1.44
For 100 the cost is $1.92
